To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing to you regarding the proposed settlement of the Microsoft case. I am writing to you from a Windows platform and through Hotmail. Although I do not consider myself a computer expert I think that it is a long stretch to consider me a victim of Microsoft. I appreciate what I have gotten from Microsoft and wish that you would settle this case. In my mind, since you have the extraordinary power of the federal government behind you, it is incumbent on you to be extraordinarily careful not to misuse this power for personal aggrandizement or to back those who feel the heat from Microsoft's innovation.
